Athletic Plant Is Being Built Largely by Gifts of Citizens Over the Panhandle

The end of 1936 reveals that gifts totalling more than $50,000 have been made by private citizens to W. T. during the past twelve months.

Gifts of estimated value of $23,000 were made to carry on the athletic plant improvements carried out through the planning of President J. A. Hill, Coach Al Baggett, and C. H. Jarrett, president of the Buffalo Club.

Friends of the College Farm contributed $1,803.00 to this project which enabled 40 boys to work for part of their expenses while in college. Prof. T. M. Moore is faculty supervisor of the farm.

The Panhandle-Plains Historical Society received gifts totalling at least $2,500 in value, according to Secretary L. F. Sheffy. Eight hundred articles were received during the twelve months. The most valuable single contribution came came from Miss Susan J. Allen of Haverford, Pennsylvania.

Many persons who could not give money showed their interest in the college by giving time and labor.

Twenty-five thousand dollars were received for the Ex-student Loan Fund from the Will C. Hogg estate. The income from this fund will enable many young people to attend college.

President J. A. Hill was asked what gift he would like most to receive for the college in 1937. Without hesitation he replied, "I would choose a library; we need a library more than anything else, for the library is the heart of any institution which hopes to give its patrons a real education."

Three Women Are Arrested On Hiway With Booze

Sheriff Bob Barnett is accumulating booze very rapidly in his vault with raids made during the holiday season.

One woman from Lubbock, giving her name as Vera McSpadden, was arrested on the highway Saturday with a load of booze. She plead guilty of transportation of booze, and paid a fine.

Tuesday evening Mamie Spilman, Estelle Edwards and a man, Dawson Jackson, were arrested and also paid a fine for transportation. They gave their homes as Plainview.

Work Order Issued To Begin Swimming Pool Construction

The work order was issued Friday to start construction on the swimming pool on the campus. Construction will start on Saturday of next week, Jan. 2nd, by order of PWA.

This project will cost $40,000, PWA making a loan and grant to cover the cost of construction.

Miss Virginia Jarrett was in Childress Saturday for the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Mamie King to her brother, Dr. Robert P. Jarrett.

Gift Tax Must Be Paid By Merchants

All business firms and organizations who make gifts in the way of drawings for the public are subject to a 20% tax on the value of the gifts under the terms of a state law which became effective last month.

The News has ascertained through a representative of the State Comptroller's department at Austin that religious and fraternal organizations are subject to the 20% tax the same as are commercial organizations.

The tax on gifts made during the month of November must be paid by December 25th. Gifts made during December are payable by January 25th.

No printed forms are yet available for making reports, but letters to the State Comptroller, Austin, with a check made payable to the Texas State Treasurer, are all that is necessary in making the report of gifts.

There is a very heavy fine for those who violate this law.

25 Turkeys Were Given Away Tuesday at 3:00 P. M.

A large number of people were at the bandstand Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock when 25 live turkeys were given away by the Chamber of Commerce and the 40 merchants who have been co-operating during the past year in the weekly event.

Saturday closed the weekly cash distribution for the year.

S. H. Condron, director of the Chamber of Commerce, made a survey among the merchants Saturday as to whether the weekly cash contribution plan should be carried on during 1937. No decision has been reached on this plan, but it is expected that definite action will be taken within the coming two weeks. At least the plan will not be carried on until after the first of the year.

Practically all business houses will start their inventory Saturday, following the Christmas holiday of Friday, and will be engaged next week in closing up the business of 1936.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY IS MARRIED SUNDAY

Miss Roberta Carroll of Claude and Robert E. Underwood, Jr., of Amarillo, were united in marriage Sunday at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Carroll, in Claude.

The groom will become district attorney of the 47th district, composed of Potter, Armstrong and Randall counties on the first of January.

Christmas Theme For Rotary Club Meeting Tuesday

A Christmas program was put on Tuesday at the weekly luncheon of the Canyon Rotary Club.

The Club sang Christmas songs directed by Chas. L. Dickey.

Mrs. Harry A. Brown made a short talk upon the significance of Christmas, calling attention that this is a Holy Day rather than a holiday, as is usually observed. Parents were advised to teach their children the real significance of Christmas and to give the gift which was beautiful and enduring —faith in Jesus. Mrs. Brown read three poems illustrating the thought of her talk.

H. G. Moore of the high school faculty read a Christmas story.

Louis Upchurch was the guest of his father, Walter H. Upchurch.

ESTATE OF W. C. HOGG
By Mike Hogg
COUNTERSIGNED
By Wm. C. Hogg

The above photostatic copy of a check for $25,000 represents the largest single gift ever made to the West Texas State Teachers College to help ambitious Texas boys and girls to secure an education.

The check is signed by Mike Hogg, executor of the estate of W. C. Hogg, of Houston, a son of James Stephen Hogg, once governor of the state of Texas.

It was no momentary impulse which made Will Hogg set aside $600,000 to establish loan funds in state-supported institutions of higher learning. As early as 1921 he was considering means of helping intellectually hungry boys and girls whose "parents could not furnish all or as much as one-half the money necessary for them to attend college."

It was in that year that his first gift of $510.00 was made to the Canyon College, and the Ex-students Loan Fund created and chartered. The charter stated that a fund of $100,000 "or more" is the objective of the organization.

The charter was signed by people whose names stood for ambition and integrity; they were Will C. Hogg, Houston; Anna I Hibbets, and Mrs. Clyde W. Warwick, Canyon; J. J. Powell, Lueders; Guy Rogers, Wichita Falls; Burke Mathis, Plainview; Frank McLaughlin, Ralls; H. C. Sanders, Fort Worth, and Lola Word, Amarillo.

Through additions by Mr. Hogg and citizens of Canyon and Amarillo, the original fund has grown to $2,180. It has furnished help to students in the form of 222 loans, totaling $7,457.72. The largest loan shown is $250.00 on which $77.20 interest was paid; the smallest interest payment in the record is eight cents paid on a loan of $7.52.

Hogg Wished to Honor Parents

The memory of parents whose character had contributed greatly to Texas, coupled with his interest in youth prompted Will Hogg to establish loan funds which will keep green the memory of his mother, Sarah Stinson Hogg and his father, James Stephen Hogg.

In establishing the nucleus of what he hoped will become a fund of $100,000 at the West Texas State Teachers College, Mr. Hogg stipulated that the income from the fund shall be loaned "in moderate amounts" to "bona fide residents of Texas" and that preference shall be given to applicants "who unmistakably avow their intention to continue to a degree in this college."

Loans are to be made through a committee of three or five, and are to be secured by life insurance in the amount of the debt, payable to the fund.

Although Mr. Hogg died in 1931, conditions made it impossible to pay the bequests in his will until late this fall and the income from the $25,000 will probably not be available for some time, according to the statement of President J. A. Hill of the college. In the meantime the entire amount of the Ex-student Fund now available is in use. Through the years there have been few losses. Mr. Hogg's generous spirit was once shown when there was difficulty in collecting one of the notes; he wrote, "I think that you are correct in this matter, but I believe it would be Contributions may be made with Guy Harp, Levi Cole or Clyde Warwick.

TIERRA BLANCA UP

Biggest Dam in the Panhandle Is Presented—Will Urge Small Dams and Many Lakes

The proposed dam on the Tierra Blanca south of Umbarger was approved Saturday by 500 delegates from 30 counties in northwest Texas who had gathered in Amarillo to discuss water conservation.

W. A. Warren was elected director from Randall County, and was also named one of the six vice-presidents who will direct the work of the organization. John McCarty of Amarillo was elected president of the organization. Other vice presidents named were: Wilson Cowen of Dalhart; W. L. Helton of Canadian; B. C. McCasland of Tulia; Claude Gamble, of Clovis; Noel McDade, of Dumas.

Carl Hinton of Amarillo was named executive secretary, and will be loaned to the organization by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce in order to carry on the work.

A budget of $10,000 was adopted and was prorated among the counties. Commissioners courts will be requested to make quarterly payments in view of the fact that it might not be necessary to hold the organization together for a full year. The work of the organization will depend upon the recommendations which are made to Congress by the President.

Extensive contouring, terracing, farm pond and lake building operations are planned by the association. Governmental aid will be sought and a representative will be kept in Washington until the association's objectives are accomplished.

Buffaloes Take Opening Games In Basketball

Pair of Games are Taken From the Miners Thursday and Friday; Team to Oklahoma City

The Buffalo basketball team opened the season by winning two games from the Colorado School of Mines on Thursday and Friday nights.

The first game was won 53-37 and the second game 56-26.

The small, speed Miners fought the giant Buffs every minute of both games. In the first game the Buffs held the slim lead of 23-30 at the end of the half.

The Miners took the lead in the second game, shooting baskets at all angles before the Buffs got organized and stopped the attack.

The superior heights and ball handling of the Buffs were responsible for both victories. The team showed itself to be on a par with the outstanding crews which have represented W. T. in past years.

Shackelford, center, was the high point man both nights.

Men used in the games were: Captain Clark, Butler, Hayes, Shackelford, Walling, Stevenson, Arthur, Johnson, Neilson and Cullender.

The Buffs are taking off a few days for Christmas, but will go back into practice Saturday. The team leaves Monday for Oklahoma City to enter the invitation meet four days next week.

W. T. Football Men Will Meet Players of Tech

The annual Floyd county football game between local players representing W. T. and Tech will be played at Floydada on Christmas Day.

Leo Jackson, captain of this year's Buffalo team, will head the W. T. delegation. A number of this year's Buffalo squad have been invited to play with Jackson in this game.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Phillips are on a trip to Mexico City for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Knighton and sons will leave today for San Marcos to spend the holidays.

Amarillo Will Play Kerrville Saturday State Championship

The Golden Sandstorm team of Amarillo defeated the Fort Worth Bears last Saturday in the state semi-finals. At the same time Kerrville was defeating Port Arthur.

Amarillo was chosen as the meeting place for the state final game next Saturday afternoon, meeting Kerrville. Amarillo is the defending champion of Texas, having won the title the last two years.

IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS?

Years ago when the brilliant Dana guided the destinies of the New York Sun, he received the following note from eight-year old Virginia O'Halon:

Dear Editor: I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says if you see it in the Sun it's so. Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Claus?

The following editorial reply appeared in the Sun the next day:

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible to their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then; no poetry; no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies. You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor man can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not. But that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus? Thank God, he lives and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia; nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

CONGRESSIONAL PROBLEMS

The spokesmen of the people—that is, the Senators and Representatives who will make up the next Congress—are converging on Washington. They are settling themselves in hotel suites, apartments, houses. They are meeting unofficially and discussing the tasks that lie before them. And they are looking forward, cheerfully or otherwise, to a very heavy business calendar.

Leadership of the Senate will not be changed from last session. Robinson of Arkansas, who was re-elected by a staggering majority, will head the overwhelming Democratic majority. McNary of Oregon, one of the very few Republicans of high public position who survive the Roosevelt landslide, will be spokesman for the GOP minority. In the House, the Republican leadership will also probably be the same as it was last session, but there will be a new Speaker. There is considerable competition on foot for this very important post, but it seems almost certain that Administration-backed Representative Rayburn of Texas will get the necessary votes. His chief opponent is Representative O'Connor of New York, 13 years a member of the House.

These leaders and their followers will have plenty to do between January and June, or whenever Congress ends. It would seem, in view of the great Democratic majorities, that there would be little trouble in approving or voiding legislation—but unless all the forecasters are wrong, there will be many a burning speech delivered from the floors of both branches, many a bitter wrangle in committee rooms.

For example, one of the biggest questions facing Congressmen is that of appropriations. The President is said to favor a reduction in government expenditures, is talking of a balanced budget. Most officeholders pay him lip service in this—but privately, many of them have very different ideas. Biggest spending bureau of the government is the WPA. It is obvious that government costs cannot be curtailed without more or less drastic WPA retrenchment. Word has already gone out from the White House that the WPA budget is to be gradually reduced, starting with a 7 per cent slice.

So far so good—but when you cut WPA spending, you must discharge thousands and perhaps hundreds of thousands of people from WPA rolls Each of these is a voter, and each voter may control two or three other votes. Congressmen—especially Representatives, whose terms are only two years, as against six years for Senators—are afraid of reprisals at the 1938 polls if WPA beneficiaries are given the gate.

Present WPA funds will run out along about January 21. More funds will be appropriated—but the President's ideas as to totals are likely to be very different than those of lesser officeholders. So he faces some internal warfare when that matter comes up. Probably his wishes will determine the final outcome—but there will be fireworks first.

As contrasted with the burning topic of spending, it seems only reasonable to presume that the President's desires will be followed without much argument in most other matters. He wants the Reciprocal Tariff renewed. It undoubtedly will be. He also wants the expiring RFC given a new lease on life—that too will be done, unless a miracle happens. So, with the President's power to devalue our currency, the hot-oil measure, FHA insurance of defaulted mortgages, and other measures which are now in effect under expiring laws.

It is said that there will be no law rejuvenating, in different legal terms, the defunct NRA, and that the 30-hour week bill will die a legislative death.

As for the Administration's attitude toward the Supreme Court, there are many guesses being made, but the only person who can say definitely what will be done, the President, has said nothing. The recent Supreme Court decision on the New York unemployment insurance laws has led some to believe that the Court is "following the election returns" and becoming more "liberal." That remains to be seen. There is always the possibility that, should the Court void measures close to the Administration's heart, Mr. Roosevelt will ask the country to pass a new Constitutional Amendment restricting the Court's power.

Business is naturally looking forward to Congress convening with keen interest and some trepidation. Leaders hope the President will be able to keep all factions contented. They naturally approve his announced stand in favor of budget balancing and debt reduction.

A merry fight will be staged in the coming session of the legislature between the railroads and the trucks. For several years the trucks have attempted to liberalize the law limiting the load to 7,000 pounds. The legislature has stood pat and refuses to allow the trucks to pile the load as high and wide as they wished, arguing that the public had the right of protection. Highways are built at public expense, and the railroads are the heaviest tax paying bodies in the nation. The trucks are allowed the use of this public highway, while the railroads are forced to furnish their own road beds. The trucks argue that they are heavy taxpayers in the way of vehicle taxes and gasoline taxes, but overlook the fact that the railroads pay both of these taxes, and then some. In addition the railroads have been forced to eliminate crossings, and are no longer a public menace to those who travel in cars, whereas a large part of the highway accidents are caused by the excessive number of trucks on the highway. The trucks further overlook the responsibility of the railroads in their dealings with the public, whereas the truck lines are very largely non-responsible. As a matter of convenience, trucks are necessary to business on short hauls, but they should not be allowed to compete with the railroads on long hauls. Be it said, however, in criticism of the railroads, the wrath which is being poured out upon them by the public is largely brought on by the companies themselves. "The public be damned" policy for so long practiced by the railroads has largely turned away from them the public sympathy to which they are entitled in their fight for survival of the fittest.

Davy and Wally will continue to be the big headlines for many months to come. Every event that comes along seems to make more news possible in their favor. The Bishop of Canterbury piped off in a world wide broadcast, which has proven a boomarang against both the man and the church he represents. The more that conditions develop in England, the more it becomes apparent that the fight which was started between Edward and the Prime Minister was for the right of supremacy. The Prime Minister certainly realizes that the throne is the only thing which binds the great empire together, but through the selfish motives of his office to rule the king, rather than the king rule the empire, Baldwin was willing to run the risk of splitting the empire. Men are funny creatures after all, and cherish more the idea of a personal triumph for the moment rather than looking down the centuries for the great common good.

Pretty good for John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National committee. He lost the election with Landon as his candidate by the largest majority ever recorded against his party; ran up a debt of a million of dollars; threatened to resign the chairmanship, but with the huge debts facing the party, the high moguls decided to give him a salary of $25,000 per year and let John work out his own salvation.

H. L. Mencken, newspaper writer: "Free speech is not the prerogative of wise men only; it is also a precious possession of fools and fanatics, apocatlypts and Utopians."

A multitude of sins of carelessness is often covered by the fire insurance.

Even the Pilgrims Celebrated on Christmas Day

© Yale University Press

The Pilgrims thought that joy and feasting on a holy day was sinful and frowned on any observance of Christmas, yet on the evening of December 25, 1620, it is recorded that the Puritans returned to their ship and had a feast. The historian was careful to record, that it was to celebrate the start of their new home.

The Peoples Store

"WONDER if Harris would care? Shall I do it, then ask him afterward?" Rachel Stanton, the morning of Christmas eve, looked admiringly at the brilliant tree in the pleasant living room, then hurried to brush snow from Harris, who, stamping in from the back porch, panted:

"I've cleaned the driveways to barns and road but will have to do it again today. What were you saying?" he was interrupted by Rachel.

"The radio announces that the snow plow from Warnton has stuck at the corner and will have to be dynamited out. No one can get through highways farther than the crossroad's corner," Rachel hurried to the telephone's jingling.

"It was Martha calling. She and Gene and the children started here but are blocked in at a home of kind strangers. I wish we could get food to the Harrison family in the Bottoms. They have no telephone, no near neighbors, and would freeze if they tried to get here through high drifts. Such a winter! It looks as though our Christmas will be "we two," she sighed at the color-lighted tree.

"Well, I see I'll have to shovel out the driveways again," Harris announced, pulling on jacket and gloves.

Later when he went inside to warm his fingers he heard Martha humming and was thankful that she was cheerful over the disappointment of Christmas eve without her relatives. Odors of savory food and the attractive table with Christmas colors, were inviting as he stamped in after evening chores were finished.

"Tonight will be the worst so far this winter. The wind is rising and snow blowing. A terrible night. Surely no one would venture on highways—why—where is the tree? Did you dump it outside because our company didn't come?" he looked, to be sure Rachel was sane, then at the empty corner where the tree had stood.

"Yes, the radio announced the temperatures will be lowest of season, so far."

"The tree, Rachel! Did you throw it out?"

"That's exactly what I did—only didn't throw—"a shout from outside sent Harris quickly to the door.

"Come in from the terrible blizzard, you poor frozen—how did you get here?" Rachel helped Harris unwrap five shivering visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison and children.

"Oh, it's been terrible getting here. But it was either to freeze and starve at home or risk getting here," Mr. Harrison wheezed.

"But, how did you?" Harris began.

"Outside — see the dogs. We hitched them to the sled. The blessed creatures helped us over drifts which are now frozen."

Steaming food was soon on plates and faithful dogs were lapping milk and broth near the kitchen range.

"How did you find the direction—the way in blinding snow?" Harris looked puzzled.

"Well, we got to the top of King's Ridge in the pasture, and came toward the light. The light near your grove, back there," the visitor pointed toward the west. "That light guided us."

"What light?" Harris stammered.

"Harris, dear, will you please carry our Christmas tree back into the house? I carried it outside this morning to the grove and put food on it for birds, wild ducks and any other wild animals that need food and shelter. Then, tonight, I hung that large lantern with the strong light on top the tree to guide whoever might need it.

Merry laughter rang into the night as nuts were cracked and corn popped. Christmas morning Mr. Harrison helped keep snow from driveways and a path to the grove where the children carried food to a stack of fodder which the men had placed for the wild animals.

"Snow may be drifted high outside. But kindness inside of me needs never be blocked so it can not be scattered and be a guide to others," Rachel mused after the happy Christmas of the worst winter.

"GRAND'THER, isn't that the most beautiful doll you ever saw?" The little hand tugged at the hand of the tall man. He looked down at the childish figure beside him. "I wish I had one like her," the child said in a low tone.

The man mused with a tender smile, "It is very beautiful dear—but I thought I heard you say that you had all of the dolls you could care for."

"Well—I did," came the faltering answer "but"—as though an inspiration had presented itself—"I could give some away I s'pose." The man's clasp tightened on the child's hand, and then he reminded her gently that they must hurry on if they were to be home in time for luncheon. Although there were many other interesting toys in the department of the great store, the child showed little interest in them, and managed to work their way back to the object of her affection, and stood enraptured before it until her grandfather again reminded her that they really must be on their way home.

As the child reluctantly followed, the man recalled another dark eyed Marcia standing before just such a doll and heard again almost the same words this Marcia had used today. "Isn't," she had said, "that doll in pink just beautiful? I wish I had one like it." And he heard the man beside her reply: "You have more dolls now than you know what to do with," and he had added, "That is too expensive anyway." "Oh is it?" the child had asked in surprise. "Yes, everything in this store is." He hadn't known whether it was or not, but he had led the child away. Later he asked himself many times why he hadn't given the doll to the child, and he resolved that never again would he be the cause of a hurt look such as he had seen in the little one's eyes that day. From then on, he determined to grant her every wish that he possibly could and so atone for the unnecessary suffering he had caused.

Christmas night John Grant sat alone before the fire, his head against the back of the chair, his eyes closed and a smile of content upon his face. The door opened and a young woman's voice called softly—"Father."

"Yes, my dear," he answered as he turned toward her.

"Mother wants to know if you aren't coming to bed," the young woman said as she came into the room.

"Tell your mother I'll be there in just a minute," the man replied with a laugh.

"Do you know, father, I think that you have made Marcia the happiest little girl in the world tonight," Marcia Field said as she went and sat on the arm of her father's chair.

Her father put his arm around her. "I'm glad if I did," he told her.

"Do you know that doll reminds me of one I wanted many years ago. I thought that I never would be happy if I didn't have that doll," Marcia laughed at the memory.

"And I wouldn't buy it for you," her father frowned.

"Why father do you remember that?" the daughter asked in surprise.

"I have never forgotten it, and I resolved never to be the cause of hurting you or anyone as I had you that day."

"Why, you old dear." Marcia laughed as she hugged him. "I haven't thought of it for years." And then she said suddenly as a light of understanding broke upon her, "That is why you always have done so much for me, and why you gave Marcia that doll today, isn't it?" John Grant's smile was the only answer he gave for a moment, and then he said: "If I have succeeded in making both or either of you happy, I shall be happy, too, for I shall feel that I have at least in part paid a Christmas debt long overdue."

"Dear, dear father," Marcia lovingly assured him, "you don't know how well you have succeeded."

"Then I am indeed content."

Avoid Mailing Rush

By preparing each Christmas gift for mailing as it is bought or made, much time and hurry is saved at the last moment.

SAM LINCOLN walked slowly along the street gazing into store windows. An icy wind caught him at the corners but he hurried across to the next curb intent on his mental shopping.

He was thinking hard of Cora, too. Though not a word had been spoken between them on the subject, it was quite understood that he should buy her warm gloves, a warm sweater and stockings for Christmas. He'd saved a fair amount for this very purpose. When you gave up your city living for the country, you thought in terms of wool. Cora needed all these things. Her gloves were worn down to thin spots. Her sweater had been mended a good many times and her stockings—well, Cora just laughed about them. Cora would. She had made fun of every hard thing about changing their home, from the dreadful wheezy pump in the kitchen, to the way the floors slanted in the bed rooms, so that no pencil would stay on a table, and books continually slid off on the floor. Cora was a thoroughbred and a good sport.

Sam looked at a green sweater. That would be becoming to Cora's light curls. Or that cheerful red one. Nice on snowy winter mornings. The very chickadees would sing with pleasure at sight of her in that sweater. He took a few steps toward the shop door when his eye fell on a black-and-yellow silk kimono.

Of course he would not get it; just inquire the price so that he might look at it.

The moment Sam touched a reverent hand to the exquisite silk he was lost. Thrifty, hard-working Sam! How could he have done such a thing? And so calmly, too. "Please wrap it up," he had said. The price had been reduced in order to sell quickly. He walked out of the shop with the light bundle under his arm, and slunk by windows filled with warm woolen clothes . . . the kind Cora so sorely needed.

All the way home on the train his heart sank lower and lower. He felt so chilled and miserable at the thought of his weak behavior, that Cora rushed at him as he opened the door, exclaiming, "My dear, what dreadful thing has happened to you?"

"You're So Lovely I Want to Kiss You Very Hard."

They had an excellent if frugal dinner. Cora chatted happily of this and that, looking unusually pretty and gay. Sam tried to meet her laughter, but actually shivered along his spine. Idiot! Fool! Wretched unspeakable lunatic that he was! Would a yellow-and-black Chinese kimono keep Cora warm? It would not.

Justice demanded that he confess. Cora would be kind, and that would hurt more than anything. Cora would be kind . . . and keep right on feeling cold on the crisp mornings after Christmas. But he must do it . . . muddle through it somehow.

After dinner he came close to Cora muttering something about a gift, and how darned sorry he was . . . and please, please not to look at him so sweetly.

Cora unwrapped the bundle. Sam waited. The lovely shining thing fell to the floor with the lights gleaming on it.

"Oh . . . oh . . . ! I never in all my life saw anything so magnificent! For me? Surely, surely not for me, Sam? But how I'd adore it! I'm sure I wouldn't mind anything if I knew such a gorgeous garment were hanging in my closet. But of course you're teasing me . . . "

"No," said Sam heavily, "it's your Christmas present. I feel like a cad. I know you need the warm things . . . don't be so darned sweet about it!" he commanded crossly.

Cora flung on the robe, and threw her arms around Sam's neck. "I don't know why you're acting this silly way . . . but if you're so dead set on warm things . . . a whole box came this afternoon from Uncle Horace."

Sam sank weakly into a chair. "You're so lovely I want to kiss you very hard."

"Why not?" inquired Cora, resplendent in the yellow-and-black kimono. "This is simply the most wonderful thing you ever did for me."

THE EAGLE'S TALE

Happy New Year

VOL. NO. 11. CANYON, TEXAS, DECEMBER 24, 1936. NUMBER 15

BASKETEERS TAKE FIRST AND THIRD AT FRIONA

Cactus Cal

Greetings, folks:

I'm here again to wish you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Gals, you had better get down to business. There are just seven more days in this Leap Year, as the most of you know. Carolyn says she can be all fixed up before Leap Year is over, but you sure better hurry.

I hear Mr. Pope kinda got young at the senior party tother night. That was sure a break for you.

A certain ex-student gal and Mr. Hutto are really getting popular to get their names in the Paramount news at Amarillo. Keep it up; maybe some day you will be well-known characters.

Say, I hear that Sam Robinson had to be very careful about keeping on an overcoat on the trip the journalists took to Amarillo. Course it wuz sorta chilly; but why didn't Sam just keep on wearing his sweater, 'stead of borrowing Kelly's coat?

Too bad that football banquet had to be postponed. Oh well, cheer up; that feed will taste just as good after Christmas.

I found a note the other day and it was all X's and Y's. Those seventh-grade girls and boys really know how it's done, don't they?

I found one that had Miss Eula Bell Lovejoy's name on it, from a boy named J. B. I couldn't read it, is all I hated.

What is this I hear about Charlotte Beth making eyes at senior boys? Keep it up, old gal; don't lose confidence in yourself.

I'd better be good so Santa will come to see me but—

I'll B C N U

Dear Santa Claus:

I am a little girl 15 years old, and I want a nice, fat boy with rosy cheeks and that's all.

Dear Santa Claus:

James Drummond.

Dear Santa:

I want some peanuts.

Leff Clounch.

(Ed note: I've heard they're the making of a confident basketball player.)

Dear Santa:

The thing I want most for Christmas is something to keep my masculine admirers away. Of course, I will expect all the regular things, but please put this first. Your friend, (I hope).

Betty Guthrie.

Dear Old Santa Claus:

Most of all I want a quiet study hall, but I also eagerly desire a new car like Mr. Brown's and someone nice to go in it with me. Your small friend,

Speech Classes Get Under Way

Debating, extemporaneous speaking, and declamation have been further organized during the last two weeks.

Girls debating are Billy Greenfield, Lillian Chambers, Mildred Shuman, Marielle Oldham, Sarah Thompson, Shirley Oliver, and Margaret Stewart. The boys are Melvin Calliham, C. L. Drummond, Donald Wilkinson, Lester Smith, Grant Sharman, John Albers, John B. Pope, and Sherman Higdon.

Boys declaiming are James Pope, Clarence Thompson, and Willis Criswell. The girls are Carolyn Mayfield, Natalie Flesher, Marie O'Donald, Renna Beth Bellah, Betty Solomon, Polly Cluck, Mary Burnett, Pauline Spencer, and Martha Campbell.

This will be the first year in several that Canyon High School has entered into the extemporaneous speaking contest; Jean Slack, Jack Inman, and Nora Lee Brazil are entering.

Others will possibly come out for some form of speaking later on. The one-act play contest will also be entered.

Rotary Etnertains Football Boys

Last Tuesday, December 14, the football boys and Mr. Gerald Brown, the assistant coach, were invited by the Rotary Club to eat luncheon at the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Emil Hutto, the coach, and Mr. I. B. Carruth are members of this club.

Each boy was introduced by a Rotary member. The program consisted of a resume of the 1936 football season, nine of the boys giving a short discussion of the nine games that were played.

Mr. Brown was the chairman of the program. The boys reported as follows: Lefors game, Joe Gill; Panhandle game, Sherman Higdon; Dimmitt game, James Pope; Perryton game, C. L. Drummond; Claude game, Hershel Burrus; Tulia game, O'Dell Miller; Happy game, Douglas Brasuel; Dalhart game, Melvin Calliham; and the Hereford game, Jack Middleton.

Each boy gave his version of the game, including long runs and touchdowns as they were made, and the alibis for losing the games that were lost this season.

FRESHMEN ENTERTAINED BY MRS. JOHN HUNTER

Gifts were exchanged by the freshmen boys and girls at a Christmas party Wednesday evening at the home of Billy Joe Hunter. The Christmas tree was furnished by the class, and refreshments were served by Mrs. John Hunter, room mother. The girls drew the boys' names and the boys drew the girls' names in exchanging the gifts. Various games were played during the evening.

BAND AND GLEE CLUB GIVE ENTERTAINMENT

The Canyon High School band and glee club gave a good will program of songs, readings, and music at the Palo Duro School at 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

The glee club sang the following songs: "At the End of a Perfect Day," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem," "Silent Night," and "Barcarolle."

The band played the following selections: "Silent Night," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem."

Sixty Canyon High School pupils made the trip in two school busses.

ABODE

An abiding place for Peace, Goodwill?
Why, the world is space so wide
That surely a niche for Peace, Goodwill
May be found this Christmastide!

You have searched so long and cannot find
Just the proper spot for These?
You say you have roamed through distant lands
Far across the Seven Seas?

It would seem, perhaps, you've searched too far;
Find the place where He began,
And give His Goodwill and Peace a home
In the heart of Everyman.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS

"Not what we give but what we share,
For the gift without the giver is bare."—Lowell.

When Christmas comes, do you have the real Christmas spirit? Do you think of Christmas as a time of giving, and remember why Christmas was originated; or do you think of it as a time to eat candy, nuts, pies, and cakes, and to receive presents? Do you give yourself with your gifts, or do you give them because it is customary?

Christmas is supposedly a celebration of Christ's birthday. Of course, to have the real Christmas, one may also think of Santa Claus and have a good time. One should not spend all his time gloating over his gifts, nor should he spend all his time in serious thoughts.

However, America seems to celebrate Santa Claus more than Christ on Christmas. Do you see the picture of Christ and his mother in the papers, or do you see the picture of Santa Claus? The answer to this question is obvious; you can turn through any paper near Christmas time and you will see from fifteen to twenty more pictures of Santa Claus than of the Christ child. We do not mean to say that one should not celebrate Santa at all, but that he should put Christ first.

When Saint Nicholas gave gifts years ago, he gave them because he wanted to and he gave himself with them. This kind of giving should be used all of the time and not just after someone has preached to you two hours to try to get you to give. We should all give with the same spirit that the widow had when she gave her mite.

So this Christmas let us have a good time, but at the same time remember the the real purpose of Christmas.

"Who gives himself with his alms feeds three, Himself, his hungering neighbor, and me."—Lowell.

Mr. Brown's constitution is not so strong since he got back from Friona. After seeing two Eagle teams defeat two Friona teams, each game won by a one-point margin, Mr. Brown was on the edge of a nervous breakdown.

Ray Ford Rusk must have prayed that last shot of his through the goal. It balanced on the goal for what seemed like an hour and then fell through. Did the Friona fans groan! You couldn't hear yourself think then.

The Friona fans certainly went wild in that last game. Coach Morris said that if we had lost that game, he would have had to leave the gym through a window. He coached at Friona last year and the fans were wild to beat him. He didn't mind beating them a bit either.

The girls seem to be having hard luck. Kate Donnell and Renna Beth Bellah, both regular forwards, were sick with the flu while they were in Friona. Both were confined to their beds on return to Canyon. Well, Coach Brown, you can't be unlucky all your life. Some day you may flip a coin and win.

"Girl of My Dreams" Is Theme Expressed By C. H. S. Boy

"Girl of my dreams, I love you. Honest I do; no one but you!"

But what does the girl of my dreams look like? How does she dress? How does she act, in public and in private?

Well, to make a long story short, the girl of my dreams is a medium girl. She's not the sophisticated lady about town of the movies, but the common, ordinary modern girl. She dresses neatly in the usual styles appropriate to the time and place, with the "appropriate" heavily emphasized. Girls who try to overdo clothes is not the popular girl. Garish, contrasting colors do not make up a good wardrobe for everyday wear. Dark, somber colors are not wanted, either. Good taste in clothing is one of the feature attractions of my "dream girl."

Neatness is also one of the "hits" my dream girl has scored on me. Her hair is neatly combed; her cosmetics are not applied too freely; nor yet does she paint her finger nails so bright a red that you can see nothing else.

Cosmetics have a place in the life of every normal girl. But please, please keep them in their place. Lipstick is to enhance the natural color of the lips, not to stand out like a bonfire in the snow. Powder is supposed to take the shine off the face, not to make it look as though the girl had fallen into a barrel of flour.

The girl of my dreams is even-tempered. She does not "fly off the handle" at just anything. When anger is justified, it is perfectly all right, but even then a certain dignity is preserved.

Above all the things I adore in my dream girl is her intelligence. She is not the shallow, silly type so common in the world today. She does not confine the topic of conversation to gossip and movies and clothes. She is educated and intelligent.

The girl of my dreams is not "snooty" and "high-browed." She has as much common sense as she does intelligence, if you know what I mean. She is a friend and a pal, something set upon a pedestal, in her own opinion.

This, my friend, is the girl of my dreams. Does she really exist? I think so. It is not highly improbable, in my opinion. Any intelligent girl can acquire the characteristics with the proper study and preparation. Wry shouldn't she exist, even by the hundreds?

Journalism Students Visit Russell's Stationery And Globe-News

"All aboard for Amarillo!" Nineteen journalists from Canyon High School journeyed to Amarillo last Thursday afternoon on the large school bus to visit the Globe-News and the Russell Stationery Company.

Upon reaching the Globe-News office, the group was received by Mr. John McCarty, editor of the Amarillo Daily News, and Mr. Underwood, who conducted the group through the plant. Interest was shown in the Associated Press and the United Press News as they were coming in over the teletypes. Mr. McCarty explained how the articles are assigned, and how the Associated and United Press news is handled by the different editors. Mr. Underwood then finished showing the group through the editorial room. Many of the students showed especial interest in the "morgue" where cuts and mats are filed for later use, and in the different offices, especially Gene Howe's better known as "Tack."

Next the class visited the composing room. Many features here were almost the same as those in the Canyon News office, which the class visited Thursday a week ago; however, molding of the plates for printing was of interest to the students, as this process is different from the methods of printing used in the Canyon News.

Last, the group visited the press room. The press workers explained the machine which does the actual printing of the paper. This machine can print from 32,000 to 34,000 average Amarillo daily papers in one hour. It uses 20 rolls of paper a day, each roll weighing 700 pounds, and three average-sized barrels of ink each week. After watching the Amarillo Globe being printed, each student was given a paper.

The group then went to the Russell Stationery Company, where Mr. H. M. Russell received them and showed them through the building. First, one of the employees explained the making of the prints for pictures to go in annuals. The group watched a book, "What I Saw on My Trip Abroad," being printed and bound. Mr. Russell had each students name cast on the linotype and each student was given a souvenir booklet printed by the company. Before leaving, the group watched the making of Christmas cards and wedding announcements.

Before returning to Canyon, the group ate hamburgers and ice cream at the Double Dip.

Those who made the trip were J. C. Bellah, Marie O'Donald, Helen Hurst, Mary Horn, Dorothy Warwick, Natalie Flesher, Alta Fly, Mavis Harden, Wanda Brock, Anne Maxwell, Lillian Chambers, Cam and Nelson Robinson, Jack Inman, John B. Pope, and R. E. Prichard, all members of the regular journalism class; Melvin Calliham, Beulah Brasuel, Marielle Oldham, members of the staff; and Miss Pauline Crittenden, sponsor of the Eagle's Tale.

La Tertulia Has Entertainment

Last Friday, at the second period Spanish Class, Miss Jewell Foster, teacher, entertained members of La Tertulia, the Spanish club, with a Christmas party.

The members first went down to the gymnasium and broke the pinata. The pinata is a brightly-colored bag filled with sweets, that is hung by a string from the ceiling. Each person in turn is blindfolded and given a long stick. Holding the stick he walks toward the pinata. A person holding onto a string attached to the pinata pulls it around to try to keep it from getting hit. Three chances are given each person. Finally Zella Laughery was the lucky person to hit the pinata, and a wild and mad scramble was made for the candy. After this, a story about the poinsettas of Spain and Mexico was told by Sarah Thompson.

The members then adjourned to the cooking room, where refreshments of hot chocolate and cookies were served.

Those present were Sarah Thompson, Joe Harry Roberts, Jimmie Pope, Eugene Newberry, Sanford Black, Dinsmore Mickle, Geraldine Hart, Billy Black, Helen Johnson, Anne Maxwell, Alta Fly, Annie Mae Spencer, and Zella Laughery.

Grade Pupils Give Programs

Grade 4B under the supervision of Mrs. Isabel Cousins gave a program Tuesday for the mothers. The program was as follows: Christmas carols; play of the class, "Scrooge and the Christmas Fairy." After the program they presented their gifts they had made to their mothers.

Monday 3A and 4A gave a program to the parents, completing the unit of Transportation and Communication.

Georgia Fay Holt had a birthday party Friday afternoon at her home.

Sixty-five grade children went caroling around town last week. They were under the supervision of Miss Gwendolyn Black, Mrs. John Hammond and Mrs. Goce. They had a special invitation to carol at the home of Miss Mary Moss Richardson, who treated them.

SOUTHERN ASSN. GIVES C. H. S. HIGH RATING

Canyon High School is given a high rating by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, according to a letter received by Mr. John B. Pope, principal. Canyon High School was recently re-elected to membership in the Association for the current year.

A unanimous vote and no criticism of the institution was received. Canyon High School has been a member since 1926.

NOTICE

The football banquet was planned at the C-Club meeting last Thursday evening at the high school. The banquet was to have been last Tuesday night, but because of such a short time the club postponed it until after Christmas.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will be in charge of the banquet for fifty cents a plate.

FOURTH GRADE ENTERTAINED

The fourth grade, under the supervision of Mrs. Isabel Cousins, was entertained by the room mother, Mrs. G. H. Hardman, Monday, Dec. 14. The children went out to her home one mile west of town in the big bus.

They played games of baseball, football, and others. Cocoa and cookies were served to the group, and then the Christmas gifts were taken from the tree. Each child was presented with a tarleton bag full of candy and nuts.

After the party the children walked back to the school.

WIN FINAL GAMES FROM FRIONA

Collins, Rusk, Drummond, Breitling Make All-Tourney Team

WIN TWO CUPS

Friendship Wins Friona Girls' Tourney From Union Hill

The Eagle basketeers won first place in the tournament held last Friday and Saturday at Friona. The Eaglettes took third place in the girls' division of the same tournament.

The boys played Adrian in the initial game. They emerged victorious by a score of 44-6. The Adrian boys were outclassed in every department. Rusk, Eagle center, led the scoring parade with 21 points.

In the semi-final game, the Eagles beat Dimmitt 37-38. Dimmitt had defeated the Eagles in a game at the Dimmitt tournament the week before, and the Eagles were out for revenge. Playing fast, sure basketball, they rolled up a 10-point lead the first quarter and held it all through the game. Breitling, forward, took high scoring honors with 16 points.

The Eagles met Friona Saturday night in the final game and came out on the long end of a 28-29 score. The Eagles played good offensive and even better defensive basketball to win the game.

The Canyon basketeers led 15-3 at half time. Brookfield, all-district forward last year and spark plug of the Chiefs' team this year, chalked up 20 points the last half, and only by virtue of a determined scoring drive did the Eagles come out ahead. C. L. Drummond led the Eagle scoring with 9 points.

Three Eagle players were awarded all-tournament berths, along with two from Friona. Ray Ford Rusk made all-tournament center; Eston Breitling all-tournament forward, and C. L. Drummond, guard. The other forward was Brookfield of Friona. Howlett of Friona was named the other guard.

The girls' team from Canyon progressed to the semi-finals without playing a game. Bula and Oklahoma Lane forfeited because of inability to get to Friona to play. The girls lost the semi-final game to Friendship by a score of 40-18. Friendship won the tournament from Union Hill by almost the same score. Mary Collins was high-point player of the Eaglettes, with 6 points.

The Eaglettes played the Friona girls for third place in the tournament and won 24-23. Wanda Brock led the scoring with 8 points. Mary Collins was selected an all-tournament guard. She was the only Canyon girl to place on the all-tournament team.

Trophies for the places won will be received from the Friona school within the next week.

JUNIOR CLASS HAS PARTY

The junior class was entertained Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Helen Johnson.

During the evening members of the class exchanged gifts and played various games. Refreshments of candy, nuts, and fruit, were served in Christmas stockings.

The party was planned by the following committee: Helen Hurst, chairman; Obera Burgan, Helen Johnson, Billy Sternenberg, Douglas Brasuel, Shirley Ann Oliver, Joe Harry Roberts, and Lula Marie Ellison.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM PRESENTED IN ASSEMBLY

Appropriate to the season, a Christmas program of songs, stories and poems was given Wednesday afternoon in assembly.

After Christmas carols were sung by the group, Mr. Gordon Beck told a Christmas story. Two selections were played by the Rhythm Band from the grade school, and remarks were made by Mr. John B. Pope and Supt. Irby Carruth.

Typically British, New Queen Is Ideally Suited for Crown

Elizabeth Comes to High Place Well Trained for Heavy Duties

A COMMONER sits on the British throne today!

But never was a new queen received with wider approbation than Elizabeth, former Duchess of York. Elevated to the throne by the sudden abdication of Edward VIII, Elizabeth is the personification of what every loyal Britisher wishes for his queen.

She is at once really "royal," standing for what Britishers like most in their women—dignity, friendliness, conservatism, and devotion to home, husband, and children.

From her birth as the untitled daughter of the 14th Earl of Strathmore, Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon grew up with every queenly quality. And, instinctively, the English recognized in her these important elements.

So true is this, in contrast to her unspectacular husband, the king, that British newspapers a few years ago fell into the habit of printing little items like this: "The Duchess of York, accompanied by her husband, will leave London on Tuesday next for Scotland . . ." Necessarily it required some pointed suggestions to remind editors, after all, the duke was the king's son.

PRETTY, but not too pretty, 5 feet 4 in height, with blue eyes and dark hair, rather plump, Elizabeth typifies British conservatism. She is said to use virtually no makeup. The pink in her cheeks is natural, her lips are unrouged, her eyebrows are natural.

This is Queen Elizabeth when she was Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, fiancee of the Duke of York, in 1923.

By the same token, there is an index to her character in the fact that, as Duchess of York, she made no attempt to rule as an arbiter of fashion. She wears her clothes with distinction and good taste, but there her interest in them appears to end.

If there is one phrase that might well describe the new queen it is this: "The woman every fond mother wishes her favorite son would marry."

This is so because Elizabeth is a good wife, domestic to her fingertips. And she doesn't fret under the spotlight of royalty and of her position. Instead, she seems at home as a home-maker.

Born Aug. 4, 1900, Elizabeth came of "commoner" parents, in the parlance of royalty. But they were aristocratic parents. It was not surprising, therefore, when the Duke of York announced his betrothal to the Scotch lassie, that King George and Queen Mary should bestow their whole-hearted approval and blessing.

AND, in the years since that marriage, the tutelage and counsel of the Queen Mother have had an inspiring effect on Elizabeth. She has been trained well for her high place.

For years she and her husband, the Duke of York, represented the royal family in an almost endless procession of public events. They opened new schools, attended royal weddings, traveled to Australia to dedicate new government buildings. Through these many offices the British people have grown to know and love Elizabeth.

Dam Approved

Marvin Jones, sent from Greencastle, Ind., in which the congressman endorsed the movement and asked for a full report of the conferences' actions, was read. Mr. Jones was enroute to Washington.

Program Outlined

The six-point program to be sought by the association is:

1. Retirement of pasture land in the "same manner our farm land is now handled under the program of soil conservation under the Department of Agriculture."
2. Appropriation by the government, either by direct act of Congress or under one of its existing agencies or new agencies to be created, of funds for construction of one or more large lakes in each county.
3. Continuation of the present federal agricultural conservation program.
4. Help of Randall and Deaf Smith counties in their effort to secure the huge Buffalo Lake on Tierra Blanca Creek.
5. A committee to present the association's desires to proper governmental agencies.
6. Construction of reservoirs or lakes in the Panhandle for irrigation purposes.

Necessity for "smart action" in Washington was stressed by Carl Hinton. Need for concerted backing of Congressman Marvin Jones in efforts to renew appropriations for the federal farm program also was stressed.

Hinton's plan for a $10,000 budget, money for which will be raised by the different counties on the basis of their respective assessed valuations was given unanimous endorsement by the directors. Only one county in the entire group will pay more than its share on a basis of valuations. That is Potter County which was assessed $2,000. Other assessments range from approximately $600 down to less than $200.

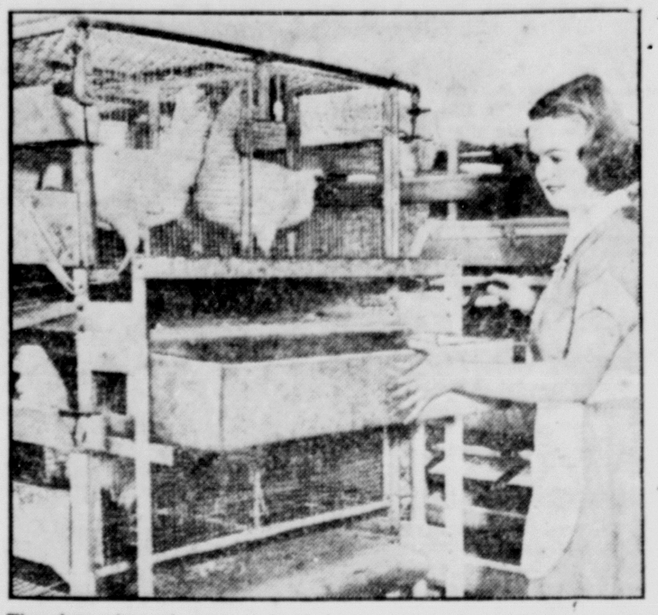
An order was passed to prohibit any official of the organization from receiving a salary. The $10,000 fund will be used only to pay expenses of representation in Washington and for other expenses of representation.

County Meetings Slated

Individual directors returned to their counties to hold meetings, at which finances and programs to be submitted by the counties will be discussed. These projects will be submitted at a meeting of the directorate in Amarillo on Thursday, January 14.

W. A. Warren presented the plan which had been adopted by Canyon and Hereford regarding the dam on the Tierra Blanca. He stated that the project was presented alone upon its own merits, and should other projects be presented of greater importance that they should first be supported. After the explanation of the possibilities of this dam, the project was unanimously adopted. All counties were urged to form as many lakes and ponds as possible in order to get the water back into the ground. The Panhandle has lost too much water on account of the floods which have taken place in the past.

City Chicks Vie With Rural Birds



The day when skyscraper-bred fowls may replace their country cousins seems to be not so far off. Here Miss Lillian Swenson, who takes care of 15,000 chickens in a small building on Long Island, is demonstrating how, by a mere turn of a crank, conveyor conducts waste products to a central receptacle. One large New York City hotel already supplies its dining rooms with chickens and eggs raised in a plant on the roof. Improved sanitation and research have reduced the death rate of city-bred fowl to less than that of farm chickens.

F. R.'s Grandson in News, Too

A share of the publicity that has engulfed the rest of the Roosevelt family now comes to William Donner Roosevelt, grandson of the president, as he is shown here, in the first picture ever made of him for publication. William is the son of Elliott Roosevelt and his former wife, Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt. Elliott now is married to the former Ruth Googins.

well 'to temper the wind to the shorn lamb.'"

The first board of directors of the fund was composed of J. A. Hill, president, L. G. Allen, dean, and R. P. Jarrett, head of the department of education of the local college, and J. J. Powell, president, and Mrs. W. C. Black, vice president of the ex-students association, and Senator W. H. Bledsoe. Of the original board, Dr. Hill and Dr. Jarrett, remain; Senator C. C. Small of Amarillo, J. Lee Gilmore of Wheeler, and Mrs. Lee Johnson, acting secretary of the Ex-students Association, are other members.

In his will, Mr. Hogg advised that the active administrators of the funds he had created in the state colleges and university meet together once each year "for comparison of practices, experiences and needs.

College Has Other Loan Funds

The people identified with the West Texas State Teachers College have been loan-fund minded since the first year of the school. In 1911, the first fund to assist students was begun, and in 1912 it was named the Gregg Cousins Memorial Loan Fund. In 1921, Judge and Mrs. A. B. Martin created the Alan Bailey Martin Loan in memory of their son; in 1927 the graduating class of that year started a fund to help senior students; John Dalrymple of Lubbock started the Dalrymple Loan Fund in 1923; in 1927 the Texas D. A. R. began a fund, income from which should be used at the West Texas State Teachers College, following the lead of the Esther McCrory Chapter of the D. A. R. in Amarillo which had established its own fund for use here in 1924. C. R. Burrow, prominent Canyon citizen, created a fund in 1929, naming it the Dorothy Burrow Loan Fund. The Potter County Federation of Women's Clubs honored Mrs. Clementine Vineyard by naming a fund for her. This fund is used to assist students who live in Potter county. The Home Economics Club of the college maintains a fund to help its own members. This year Dr. B. F. Fronabarger, head of the English department of the college, created the B. F. Fronabarger Loan Fund in memory of his father, pioneer educator and preacher of West Texas, using his soldier's bonus for the purpose. All these funds amount to slightly more than $16,000, every penny of which is in use twelve months of the year.

A helping hand will be held out to many more carefully chosen boys and girls as soon as the income of the recent bequest is available. Administrators hope that Panhandle citizens will be interested in seeing that the Hogg fund grows. Speaking of this, President J. A. Hill said, "Much money has been made in Northwest Texas in recent years, especially through the development of underground resources. Loan funds or scholarships, or buildings given to State Institutions provide ways by which great good can be accomplished, and at the same time provide suitable memorials for those who have profited by Nature's largess. It is our hope that many others will follow the example of Will Hogg."

Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)
